

Alexander C. Jordan, Sr.

Alexander is a 21-year veteran basketball official in the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the National Junior College Athletic Association. He is the co-founder of Capital City Children's Day, a non-profit STEM-based organization that addresses educational disparities in youth from kindergarten through 12th grade. He earned an Associate in Arts degree from Tallahassee Community College, a bachelor's degree in Criminal Justice from Florida Agricultural and Mechanical University, a master's degree in Public Administration from Florida Agricultural and Mechanical University, and a master's degree in Public Policy from Liberty University Helm School of Government. He is currently pursuing a doctoral degree in Educational Leadership and Administration at Florida State University.

Alexander is a member of Leadership Florida, Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc., Association of Florida Colleges, Association on Higher Education and Disability, Florida Educational Facilities Planners Association, and The Florida Department of Law Enforcement/Domestic Security Oversight Council for Higher Education. He currently serves as the Chairperson of Voter Advocacy for the NAACP Tallahassee chapter. Alexander was the recipient of the Community Services award for the Florida Department of Revenue, and more recently, was the recipient of The Jackie Pendleton Award which recognizes contributions, commitment, and efforts to High School Student-Athletes.